

clone - 'abstraction cloning' external

the hand-coded way:

using clone:

clone is an 'abstraction cloning' external for Pd. It allows to have several instances of one abstraction being executed in one object. Input data gets routed to the independent instances according to the first element.