

American University
College of Arts and Sciences
Department of Performing Arts
Audio Technology Program

The Audio Technology Program in the College of Arts and Sciences at American University invites applications for a full-time, one-year term position as Program Director beginning Fall 2014. Applicants should have the ability to teach courses in one or more of the following specializations: music recording and production, live sound, sound for film, sound synthesis, broadcast audio, and audio equipment and system design. Program Director duties include course planning and program leadership. Other responsibilities include student mentoring, graduate capstone advising, and participation in departmental service activities. Applicants must have significant professional experience. A graduate degree in audio technology or a related discipline is required, PhD preferred.

Send letter of application, C.V., and three letters of reference to: Audio Technology Search, Department of Performing Arts/Katzen Center, American University, 4400 Massachusetts Ave., NW, Washington, DC 20016-8053. Send electronic submissions to streeks@american.edu (electronic submissions strongly encouraged). Applications will be considered until position is filled.

American University is an Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, or protected Veteran status. American University is a tobacco and smoke free campus.